

"Designing for Wellness"

Daylight impacts human health and performance by kick-starting the body's circadian system, affecting mood and perception, and by enabling critical chemical reactions in the body.

Patients in rooms with good daylight require up to 25% shorter stays and 25% less medication.

Further benefits include lessening agitation among dementia patients.

Daylitter Shading Systems allow for full control and delivery of glare-free daylight while helping reduce energy consumption.

www.indoor-sky.com

